

Aims and Scope

The Majestic American Journal of Dentistry (MAJD) is an international, peer-reviewed journal dedicated to advancing dentistry and oral health sciences through high-quality research, education, and clinical practice. It promotes scientific excellence, innovation, evidence-based care, and global collaboration to support the development of modern dental sciences and improve oral healthcare worldwide.

Call for Papers

MAJD cordially invites submissions from researchers, clinicians, academicians, and healthcare professionals as original research articles, review papers, short communications, case reports and perspectives that advance knowledge and scientific discoveries in the field of dentistry and oral health science.

The journal encourages interdisciplinary and translational research that integrates basic sciences, clinical dentistry, public health, biomaterials and emerging technologies to improve oral healthcare globally.
